

GENERAL DYNAMICS

Canada

Biography

Cornell Pich,
Public Safety & Security
General Dynamics Canada

A senior member of General Dynamics Canada's business development team, Cornell Pich has responsibility for the growth and development of General Dynamics Canada's business related to the company's public safety and security offerings. Cornell brings more than sixteen years of industry and academic expertise in public safety and security networks.

As part of a multi-functional team, Cornell plays a lead role in helping to identify business and partnering opportunities in support of domestic and international public safety and security programs. Cornell joined General Dynamics Canada four years ago with the mandate to take General Dynamics Canada into new market areas.

Previously, Cornell has worked with Bell Canada (Director of Innovation and Strategic Operations), Raytheon Canada Limited (Director of Business Development), and SPAR Aerospace (Director of International Business Development).

Cornell holds a Bachelor and a Masters Degree in political science from the University of Victoria and Yonsei University in Seoul, South Korea, respectively. He completed his PhD studies in International Relations at Queens' College (Cambridge University) in 1999.

Cornell now calls Calgary home, where he lives with his wife, Susanne, and two of their two children, Mason and Brendan who are 3 years and 8 years old.